PEDCO Senior Engineer Elected to Building Commissioning Association's Central Region Board of Directors

Lawrence Wessel, P.E, QCxP, LEED AP, a Project Manager at PEDCO in Sharonville, has been elected to the Building Commissioning Association's (BCA) Central Region 2011 Board of Directors. In this role, Wessel will work with the entire Board of Directors to promote the professional development of its members; encourage and promote the acceptance of the building commissioning as a normal activity of the construction process; and educate the design professionals, facility owners, and the construction industry in the practices and benefits of the commissioning process.

The BCA is an international non-profit organization that serves as the recognized authority and resource on commissioning. The BCA membership is made up of professionals from all across the commercial buildings industry who maintain the highest standards and practices for the commissioning process. The BCA develops technical resources, forms collaborative relationships with related organizations within the building community, holds an annual conference on the latest innovations in the industry, and manages a certification program that sets the highest industry standards for credentialed commissioning professionals.

As one of its service offerings, PEDCO performs various levels of commissioning services for a wide range of clients and markets including data centers, healthcare, corporate, and others. PEDCO offers clients independent testing of all systems and services include commissioning, re-commissioning, retro-commissioning, and LEED commissioning. “Today more than ever, owners are looking for ways to improve the design and construction process from project inception to completion,” says Larry Wessel, Director of Commissioning Services at PEDCO, “and having their facilities commissioned, or re-commissioned is one way owners can help their facilities operate more efficiently and extend the life of the facility’s systems and equipment.”
