PEDCO Earns High Honors from Engineering and Construction Organizations

CINCINNATI, OH — PEDCO E&A Services, Inc. (www.pedcoea.com) a full-service engineering and architecture firm, is proud to announce that they have been recognized with the following prestigious awards for their work in recent projects.

PEDCO was distinguished with the first place Technology Award presented by Region V of The American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) for their work associated with the renovation of the Capture Services space in Fidelity Investment's facilities located at 100 Crosby Parkway in Covington, Kentucky. The design features an underfloor air distribution (UFAD) system integrated into the existing building. The Award is given for "Outstanding Achievement in the Application of Heating, Refrigeration, and Air-Conditioning Technology." ASHRAE's mission is to advance technology to serve humanity and promote a sustainable world. The organization conducts a painstaking review process for applicants that took nearly two years to complete before awarding PEDCO with the highest Regional award in Technology.

PEDCO has also earned notable recognition based on its work with the Goshen Hospital Air Handler Replacement project, which won the Michiana Builders Association (MBA) 2006 Excellence in Construction Award. PEDCO provided engineering services to Goshen Hospital in this successful venture.
